CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

ofsure of Cotton at the South regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Com-which had been frequently postponed in come-of the national bereavement, was held yester-termoon, Mr. A. A. Low in the chair.

The following gentlemen were elected new members of Chamber:—Mesers A. S. Barnes, John S. Boyd, Jr.; R Boyd and P. C. Morrie.

mes R. Boyd and P. G. Morris.

The Executive Committee reported that they had appointed fir. Cyrus W. Field to represent the Chamber of Immerce in the Suez Canal movement.

Golond F. A. Conking than read the repost of the committee appointed to take into consideration the policy of he government in the confiscation of cotton selated in ingrestionary States. This report was a very lengthy one, ad set forth the necessity of drawing a distinction between those who were undoubted trailors and loyal men, he entire debt due the North by the South previous to be commencement of the war was $150,000,000. To prost those interests it was necessary for the government of the careful in their methods of seizure. The following ree extracts from the report:—

be careful in their methods of seizure. The following contracts from the report:—

The city of Savannah having been evacuated by the rebel forces and occupied by the forces under General Sherman, without battle and without siege, and with the concurrence of many of the inhabitants, it is hardly probable that the overnment will confescate any more of the cotton found here, than shall appear to belong to the rebel government, or to convicted traitors. In addition to such an act being universal to the contract of the country is the made for the payment of the just debts due by the owners to make for the payment of the just debts due by the owners to make for the payment of the just debts due by the owners to make from the payment of the just debts due by the owners to make from the payment of them. By the act of March, 1865, Congress subtantially recognizes this equity, by protecting all claims which can be specifically enforced by law against property made subject to confeation, under the act of July 17, 1862, as mortgages and other liens. In a broad, equitable view of the matter, it can make but little difference, so far as the claim of the government is soncerned, whether the debt was secured by a legal mortgage on this specific property, or whether it was secured by equity and good conscience you the property of the debtor generally, his whole property being the basis on which the credit was originally given, and which he law would appropriate in peaceful times, to the payment of his just debts. The merchants of New York have an interest in common which he whole American jeople, that the government shall the bear and the committee have an unqualified confidence it will do no, not only on account of its own neare of honor and pastice, but on account o

As de from the legal and equitable aspects of the subject, he committee submit that there are questions of expediency avoived which cannot properly be disregarded, and which, in their riew, reader is matter of the highest importance that the government should publicly disclose the policy of recognising the right of private property within insurrectionary states. This is in itself not only just and right, but at a time like the present it is eminently betiting agreet and magnanimous people. Besides, the omission to make such a destaration will aimost inevitably, in the present condition of share, compal the inhabitants of those States to destroy likely property, or at least to permit its destroction by the rabel-soldiery. On the other hand, if the government shall examenate a policy which should prove to the people of the country and the state of the property of the sold hand, if the same time, an import and step will be discussed to them to return to their affegiance as citizens, and, at the same time, an import and step will be taken toward the se-establishment of peace-field and productive commerce between the two sections of the country.

Colonel Commission moved the adoption of the report. Captain Marshall, who was one of the committee, id he did not think it proper to put his name to at report. The spirit of the paper went to show that is cotton should go to pay the debts due to the North. the government had taken it improperly, the question build be settled by the courts where it properly benged. There was no harm in that report going to askington; but he (Captain Marshall) was positive that a government had already laid down its policy on this section.

Washington; but he (Captain Marshail) was positive that the government had already laid down its policy on this guestion.

General Straws seconded the metion of Colonel Conking as to the acceptance of the report. We were now striving at a most complicated time in the history of our country. The putting down of rebellion was simply a section of force of arms—that of the seizure and conscation of property was a graver and more important subject. They should act in a calm, considerate manner. Mr. Mozas H. Gannshi. moved that two hundred copies is the report be printed, and that the whole matter be efferred to the regular meeting of the Chamber in June. So was sorry that the cotton question had ever been introduced into the Chamber. Before the report was acted agon it would be necessary that every member should become thoroughly conversant with the subject. There were but twenty-five members present, and it was not best that they should speak the sentiments of the five or fix hundred who actually belonged to the Chamber. The support he considered nothing less than an attack upon the government. It had been stated that the city of twannah was taken without a siege, but he (Mr. Grinnell) begged to differ with the gentlemen who made that secrition. As the Union army went in the world army had slipped out Mr. Grinnell was fit the opinion that the Chamber of Commerce mothing whatever to do with the indebtedness of Georgia or any other rebell State. The cotton which had been captured belonged to the government, and this bar had not been carried on to discharge the indebtedness of the opinion that the Chamber of Commerce mothing whatever to do with the indebtedness of the opinion that the Chamber of Commerce and nothing whatever to do with the indebtedness of the opinion of the committee which proceeded to Savannah who first introduced this cotton meetion, and he made a fatal mistake in no doing. Colonel Conkluse remarked that the the report in favor of appropriating the 33,500 bales of cotton meetion, and he made a fatal
